

MEININGER City Hostel & Hotels – four times in Berlin

On the 1st of April 2008, the fourth MEININGER Hostel in Berlin opens its gates. The new location of the expanding group of hotels lies in the heart of the capital, directly at Senefelderplatz at the base of the Prenzlauer Berg hill.

After a construction period of 14 months, MEININGER (www.meininger-hostels.com), a Berlin based enterprise, is pleased to finally accommodate an increased number of guest inquiries. In the first months alone, the new hotel will reach a minimum of 75% occupancy through pre-bookings.

The seven floor new building at the u-Bahnhof Senefelderplatz has 290 beds. All 90 rooms are equipped with shower and WC, high-quality flooring, LCD flat screens as well as free wireless internet. From the doubles and single rooms of the upper floors the guests have an impressive view of Berlin's main attractions such as the TV tower, the Berlin cathedral and the Museum Island.

The ground-floor lobby and breakfast area look out on the animated Schoenhauser Allee through large bay windows. In the summer, sliding glass doors are opened onto the sidewalk and the seating possibilities are extended to the exterior sections of the hotel to enjoy the outdoor sunlight. The MEININGER Bistro is a welcoming place to stop for a café for those walking past through the bustling and trendy neighborhood.

A bed in the sleeping hall for up to six people of this new Premium Hostel is offered for as little as 19,00 euro. The overnight accommodation in a double room starts at 35,00 euro per person. A sumptuous breakfast is offered for only 3.50 euro.

MEININGER speaks to a broadly varied target group in all eight of its houses, and guarantees through the combination of competitive offers, a high room and bed flexibility, and as well as a highly effective level of and efficient service. This helps ensure that regardless of seasonal or short demand requests, that whether for single bed or group rooms, or for Business or family inquiries, MEININGER is able to service the request.
